12 Good Samaritan Hospital’s Honor Roll of Donors 2012-2013

24 Partners in Health
As the end of 2013 quickly approaches, we are honored by the faith our donors have placed in Good Samaritan Hospital this year. It is because of your generous contributions that we will be able to open our new heart catheterization lab – the Heart and Vascular Center. The new lab will be fully equipped with the state-of-the-art technology that will allow us to continue to give our cardiac patients the highest quality of care.

We also continue to be amazed and impressed with the outstanding contributions of our physicians and staff members. Drs. Chai, Cannom, and Fagan exemplify the long tradition of excellence that has been the hallmark of Good Samaritan Hospital’s medical team. We would like to take this opportunity to thank them and all of our tremendous physicians, nurses and medical staff for their extraordinary dedication to Good Samaritan Hospital and our patients.

Finally, we would like to thank our donors for their contributions to the Campaign for Cardiology, Remember Your Favorite Doctor Campaign, Partners in Health and all of our programs. It is because of your help that Good Samaritan Hospital continues to provide the highest quality of care and industry-leading health care equipment to our patients.

Thank you for your support.

hen you meet Dr. Alex Chai you will be greeted by his easy laugh and friendly smile, but don’t let his humor and unassuming nature fool you — Dr. Chai is a brilliant internist.

At the beginning of his exceptional career, he was named the Most Outstanding Resident at the University of Southern California. Then, in 2012, Dr. Chai was recognized as one of the Top Ten Doctors in the Los Angeles area and given the Patient’s Choice Award by Vitals. And the people who know him best, the staff at Good Samaritan where he has practiced for three decades, give him very high marks. “Dr. Chai has a real interest in his patients and he is someone you can trust... about half of the hospital staff goes to him,” according to one of his colleagues.

Born and raised in Hong Kong to a family of physicians, Dr. Chai came to the United States to attend the University of Rochester Medical School. He chose internal medicine because it allowed him “to treat the whole person,” if not the whole family. “That is the tradition of family medicine – doctors took care of each generation.”

Dr. Chai honored that tradition of family medicine when caring for the mother of a close colleague, Jean Soong, RN. Jean is the Project Leader of Clinical Information Systems at Good Samaritan and is about to retire after decades of service. She remembers her early work as Dr. Chai’s first head-nurse and knows from first-hand experience how well he takes care of his patients. “He remembers all the little details — he sees hundreds of patients, but he remembers all the special characteristics about each one.... His love for his patients is very impressive.”

Years ago, when Jean needed to select a doctor for her mother, Dr. Chai was the only choice, and Jean’s mother had great confidence in Dr. Chai. When Jean would see him at the hospital, he would always ask, “How is she doing?” Years later, Dr. Chai was caring and attentive when Jean’s mother passed away. “I knew he would know what to do. I felt such relief because Dr. Chai was always there for her,” she said. Jean’s family made an enduring tribute to his care by requesting that memorial contributions be made in her memory to the Remember Your Favorite Doctor Campaign to honor Dr. Chai.

Dr. Chai is well known at Good Samaritan for his attentive bedside manner and close camaraderie with staff, patients, and their families. “Bedside manner comes from your own heart. It is not something you learn in medical school,” he says with a smile. Maybe a great bedside manner comes from doing what you love. There is nothing Dr. Chai enjoys more than treating his patients. He will tell you his wife says, “I don’t understand my husband. He wakes up in the morning at 5:30 moaning and groaning — the minute he goes to the hospital his eyes are wide open, his mood changes, and he is a totally different person.” He explains it this way, “medicine for me is not work — I really enjoy it!”

Laura Medrano is another one of Dr. Chai’s grateful patients. Laura was born at Good Samaritan Hospital and has been employed by the Hospital for the last 35 years. Over the years she heard about Dr. Chai’s wonderful manner and attentive care, and when she needed an internist he was a natural choice. Laura has “total respect and confidence in Dr. Chai.” When Laura was admitted to the hospital for a surgical procedure, Dr. Chai was the first doctor to see her before and after her surgery.

“He was always there to see how I was. He makes you feel like you are important and that he really cares about you.”

Laura referred her husband, Jose, to Dr. Chai. That recommendation has turned out to be one of the best Laura has ever made. During a routine physical, Dr. Chai diagnosed Jose with early stage prostate cancer and referred him to a specialist. As Jose begins his treatment, both he and Laura are especially lucky to have Dr. Chai working with them to maintain their health.
On August 14th, Good Samaritan Hospital’s President and CEO, Andrew Leeka, hosted the dedication ceremony for the Friendship and Peace Bell commemorating the close relationship between Good Samaritan Hospital and Severance Hospital of the Yonsei University Health System in Seoul, Korea. The 770-pound brass bell is a permanent gift to Good Samaritan Hospital to honor the close friendship and partnership between the two hospitals that dates back to 1885. The Friendship and Peace Bell represents seven attributes: friendship, compassion, strength, healing, generosity, selflessness, and peace.

Good Samaritan was especially honored to host Susan Ahn Cuddy, the daughter of Korean independence activist Dosan Ahn Chang Ho. Ms. Cuddy, now 98 years old, spoke clearly and crisply of her joy and pride at attending the Friendship and Peace Bell Dedication. The ceremony was also attended by the President of Yonsei University, Kap-Young Jeong, President and CEO of Yonsei University Health System and Vice President of Yonsei University, Chul Lee, M.D., Ph.D., Los Angeles City Councilmember Tom LaBonge, and the Korean Consulate General of Los Angeles, the Honorable Yeon-Sung Shin.

Initial fundraising efforts for both Good Samaritan Hospital and Severance Hospital were lead by members of the Severance family. Today, Good Samaritan Hospital and Severance Hospital continue a long tradition of excellence and service to their respective communities.
Good Samaritan Hospital’s Music for Healing Program will celebrate its first anniversary this fall. The Program was developed to bring live music to our patients, their families and the hospital staff every day and is the brain-child of Music for Healing Volunteer Director, David Burns, and Good Samaritan Hospital Chaplain, Jerry Anderson. Together they have pulled together a wide variety of singers and musicians that specialize in everything from classical and opera to jazz and the blues.

Our first annual Music for Healing concert was held on August 18th in the All Souls Chapel and it was a resounding success. The audience enjoyed performances of blues, jazz, classical, and gospel from performers of all ages. Music for Healing can also be heard daily in the main lobby as well as special concerts in the All Souls Chapel. Occasionally, performers may also visit patients in their rooms and perform, when appropriate.

Music can be an important part of the healing process and patients and family members have expressed their appreciation for the program. For many patients, music is the only entertainment that they can enjoy during their hospital stay. One patient, struggling with a debilitating illness, put it this way, “a flute player came into my room [to play] and his music brought tears to my eyes. It was a lovely feeling to close my eyes and hear his gift of music....”

The next big Music for Healing concert will be held on December 5th at 2:00 p.m. at the annual holiday tree lighting ceremony in our lobby. The performers will usher in the holiday season with carols and other songs of the season. We hope you can be there!

Good Samaritan Hospital is very pleased to announce that Michael Gomez has joined our team as our new Vice President of Business Development. Michael, formerly the Vice President of Business Development at St. Mary’s Medical Center, brings over 30 years of experience in health care planning, HMO regulation, managed care, and business development. Michael is especially happy to join Good Samaritan Hospital because of the hospital’s history of excellence and its outstanding medical team.

Michael is taking on this leadership role at a time of critical importance for Good Samaritan Hospital. He will be leading our Business Development team in creating strategies for “physician development and retention, marketing, public relations, international business, and overall business development for the entire hospital.” One of his most challenging tasks will be leading the team in creating and implementing a strategy to address the changes in health care delivery as a result of the Affordable Care Act (ACA). Michael explains the role of the Business Development Department this way, “we are here to prepare the hospital and its physicians for the changes that are coming down the pike in health care delivery.” ACA will require hospitals to develop new clinical integration systems that include electronic medical records, changes in the way that patients are tracked and monitored in the hospital and at home, and a myriad of other requirements.

One of his major goals is to educate physicians and the medical staff on the new clinical integration system. Our main focus is always on “the patient’s experience from the minute they come in the door to the minute they are discharged and after – that is what the clinically integrated model is all about. I am confident that we will be able to prepare ourselves for the changes to come in health care delivery.”
There are some exciting changes taking place in the Fund Development Department! Good Samaritan Hospital is happy to announce a new dynamic Vice President of Fund Development, Brian W. Thorne, who brings a wealth of experience, creativity, and innovation to the team.

Fund Development plays an essential role in ensuring that Good Samaritan Hospital has the financial resources necessary to continue to bring our patients the highest quality of care possible. Throughout the years, Good Samaritan Hospital has been fortunate to have had a unique Fund Development Department, but Brian has the skills and leadership qualities necessary to take the Department to the next level. His role will be to help guide the direction of the Department and articulate the Hospital's mission to the donors and the community. For Brian, “the exciting thing about this job is the opportunity to work with donors to find their passion and goals for Good Samaritan Hospital.”

Under Brian's leadership, the Fund Development team is diligently working on acquiring the remaining funding for completing the Heart and Vascular Center. Once the Center has been completed, it will be the most technologically advanced lab in the Los Angeles area. So far, $10 million has been raised to fund the new Heart and Vascular Center and Fund Development is reaching out to our donors to help raise the final $7 million necessary for its completion. Brian and the entire Fund Development team are very busy getting ready to introduce the Heart and Vascular Center to our donors that have helped to make the new Center possible at a special event hosted by the Hospital in January.

As Brian and the rest of the Fund Development team continue to work tirelessly to help Good Samaritan Hospital realize its future goals, he appreciates that vital role the donors play in achieving those goals. “Even though we try our best to thank our donors – we just can’t thank them enough. They have made Good Samaritan a leader in health care in Los Angeles and we recognize that we cannot do it without them.”
As a leading expert in the treatment of atrial fibrillation (A-fib), Dr. Cannom and several of his colleagues have changed the face of the treatment of this common heart disorder, and in 2001, 2006, and 2011, Dr. Cannom co-wrote Guidelines for the Management of Patients with Atrial Fibrillation (Guidelines) for the American College of Cardiology Foundation, the American Heart Association, and the Heart Rhythm Society. Guidelines was the first-of-its-kind synthesis of all the outstanding medical data and research on atrial fibrillation available and is now used to inform and train physicians in the treatment of A-fib.

Beyond leading the way in A-fib research and treatment guidelines, Dr. Cannom is well-known for his outstanding patient care and tenacious desire to provide the best possible health outcomes and quality of life for his patients. His take on the doctor-patient relationship is exemplified in Norman Cousins’ book, The Healing Heart. As one of the book’s contributors, Dr. Cannom noted in the Afterward, “that treatment had to fit a particular patient and not a particular disease.” Because of his great respect for patients, Dr. Cannom believes a vital part of his role is to make sure that each patient is well informed, so he or she can be an active participant in personal health care decisions. He advises young doctors to “take time with their patients, sit down and talk to them at eye-level.”

To the world he is one of the leading researchers in heart arrhythmias, but to his patients he is just Dr. Cannom, educating and working with them to maintain their heart-health. He is pleased and proud to spend a lot of time with his patients. He explains it this way, “you can never spend too much time informing a patient, gaining their confidence and … ensuring the patient is actively involved in the decision-making process.”

Good Samaritan Hospital is especially proud to have world-class cardiologist Dr. David S. Cannom as our Director of Cardiology.

Adele Stern is one such patient. Adele is an 85-year-old resident of San Luis Obispo, volunteer, and former host of SLO Democracy, a local cable television show. When Adele was in her mid-seventies and began to feel more tired and had difficulty maintaining her active life-style, she consulted her primary care physician who diagnosed her with a bigeminal rhythm. This means that her normal heartbeat was followed by a premature heartbeat. He referred her to a local cardiologist, who suggested she stop drinking caffeine. However, her fatigue continued. Adele was not about to slow down, so when her daughter suggested she visit Dr. Cannom at Good Samaritan – she made an appointment and traveled to Los Angeles. Dr. Cannom had the same diagnosis, but tried a very different approach to treat her. He checked her into the hospital for a few days to change and carefully regulate her heart medications. Today, thanks to Dr. Cannom, Adele is her old self and back to enjoying her life.

Dr. Cannom is also a leader in treating athletes with genetic heart disease and hypertrophic cardiomyopathy, heart defects that, if undetected and untreated, can cause sudden death. Until recently, athletes diagnosed with hypertrophic cardiomyopathy were permanently benched. Dr. Cannom and his colleagues wanted to see if there was a way to get them back in the game using an implantable cardioverter-defibrillator (ICD). Their study, Safety of Sports for Athletes with Implantable Cardioverter-defibrillators: Results of a Prospective, Multinational Registry, recently published in Circulation, followed hundreds of athletes with ICDs who participated in high-risk sports. They found no occurrences of death, resuscitated arrest, arrhythmia, or shock-related injury in the group of athletes using these devices. Thanks to this research, some athletes with hypertrophic cardiomyopathy are able to safely return to the playing field with the implanted cardioverter-defibrillators.

His approach is what makes Dr. Cannom special. He works tirelessly to improve the quality of life for all of his patients, whether they are young athletes hoping to return to the playing field or mature ladies with a lot more life left to live.

Even if Dr. Cannom’s patients don’t understand the full range of his research, they know that they have one of the best cardiologists in the country working hard for them every day – and his patients have shown their appreciation by raising $10 million of the $17 million required to build the new cardiac catheterization lab through our Campaign for Cardiology.
Generous donations by private donors and organizations have allowed Good Samaritan’s Campaign for Cardiology to raise $10 million of the $17 million necessary to fund this innovative and important advancement in care. Hybrid rooms will be utilized by our physicians in a variety of ways and will enable medical teams to provide more efficient cardiology services to patients. Each hybrid room contains state-of-the-art equipment that allows doctors to use the rooms as both cardiac catheterization labs (cath labs) and operating rooms, meaning each hybrid room has the capacity to provide imaging and other testing and, if necessary, immediate surgery to a patient.

And it couldn’t come at a better time! While open-heart surgery is still the gold-standard for aortic valve replacement, not all of our patients are candidates for open-heart surgery. Good Samaritan is already a leader and the fastest growing hospital in the area for providing Transcatheter Aortic Valve Replacement (TAVR), most commonly, the TAVR procedure is performed through an artery in the leg. Our new Heart and Vascular Center will also provide the option of performing this is an especially exciting time for the Cardiology Department at Good Samaritan Hospital: Autumn 2013 marks the opening of two of four planned hybrid rooms in our new Heart and Vascular Center.
TAVR through a small incision between the ribs, which can save lives when the procedure cannot be performed on the patient through the standard approach.

The new Heart and Vascular Center, when completed, will be twice the size of our existing cath lab, including additional space to allow for future technological advances. The hybrid rooms will be equipped with the industry-leading Siemens Artis zee floor mounted system and Artis zeego multi-axis system and robotic arm. This revolutionary equipment can be positioned in any way necessary to allow for greater precision and patient access for a variety of surgical procedures. Additionally, this new equipment is mobile and can easily be moved and stored, allowing doctors and nurses more room to work and, in the event of an emergency, to immediately and easily turn a hybrid room into an operating room.

The new equipment includes integrated audio and video technology making Good Samaritan’s Heart and Vascular Center the most “high-tech” lab in the Los Angeles area. This one-of-a-kind system has a monitor capable of providing 3-D and 4-D imaging in the highest resolution possible to allow doctors to view the whole cardiovascular system in greater detail. Our new ability to obtain almost instant CT-like imaging will permit using “real-time” imaging instead of relying on previously performed CT scans. New X-ray imaging features like IC Stent will also provide superb imaging resolution, allowing for greater visibility of a stent after it is placed in the patient. Audio and video integration further enables doctors to consult with one another more efficiently with live video and audio feed, and will facilitate the learning process for academic programs by allowing participants to more effectively observe procedures and surgeries from remote location.

The new facilities also provide better working conditions for our team of doctors and nurses. Better mobility and ergonomic design of the procedure table provides greater comfort for team members and can reduce team fatigue and back strain.

The second phase of our new Heart and Vascular Center development will be completed in 2015. At that time two additional rooms will be added to the Center with the same high-tech equipment, which will allow us to bring the highest standard of care to many more patients.

We at Good Samaritan Hospital are honored by your generous donations and the faith you have placed in our team. It is the support of our donors that will allow us to continue in a long tradition of excellence and enable us to provide our cardiac patients with some of the best doctors in the nation and the most cutting-edge cardiac equipment. Thank you for making a reality of our dream of caring for patients in a new state-of-the-art Heart and Vascular Center.

Good Samaritan Hospital is especially grateful to our medical staff for their participation in Partners in Health.

Each year, Partners in Health raises tens of thousands of dollars to support Good Samaritan’s vision of excellence in the quality of care provided to our patients. In 2012, Partners in Health exceeded all expectations and raised $80,000 to support Good Samaritan’s programs.

Dr. Philip Fagan, Director of the Emergency Department, has been a member of the Emergency Department team since it opened in 1986 and is a long-time contributor. Over the years, Dr. Fagan has consistently made generous contributions to the Hospital. Why? Dr. Fagan explains it this way, “I believe in the mission of Good Samaritan Hospital to provide the highest quality of care and serve our community. We can do this by working together to financially support the Hospital.”

Dr. Fagan is especially grateful to Good Samaritan Hospital for providing physicians with an “excellent venue to practice medicine.” The Hospital’s physicians and other members of the medical staff are of the highest caliber and he is happy and proud to be a part of that team. He explains his years of contributions this way, “financially supporting the hospital, to the degree that one can, is an appropriate thing to do – and it’s the right thing to do.”

Contributions from Partners in Health and others have provided the Hospital with the ability to improve services to the community by purchasing additional equipment and expanding departments. As the Director of the Emergency Department, Dr. Fagan has had the opportunity to witness the growth of Good Samaritan’s service to the community. When the Emergency Department opened back in 1986 it cared for approximately 8,000 patients per year. Today, the Emergency Department provides emergency medical care 24 hours a day and covers all in-house codes in the hospital. It is second busiest private Emergency Department in Los Angeles County in terms of paramedic runs for the Los Angeles County Fire Department and cares for approximately 36,000 patients per year.
PARTNERS IN HEALTH 2012-2013

The Trustees of Good Samaritan Hospital extend their sincere appreciation to our Partners in Health, our prestigious giving society of physician donors. We honor these outstanding physicians for their dedication to excellence in medicine and inspired leadership in supporting philanthropic endeavors at Good Samaritan Hospital. Partners in Health understand the vital role of charitable giving in providing funds for special programs and to acquire the most advanced medical technology—for the benefit of our patients.

Dr. Philip Fagan, Director of the Emergency Department, has been a member of the Emergency Department team since it opened in 1986 and is a long-time contributor.

Dr. Fagan’s vision for the future of the Emergency Department is one of continued expansion. He sees a future where the Emergency Department can provide services to 50-60,000 patients per year. It can do this by doubling the size of its physical space, purchasing more equipment, and adding more beds. And his vision and many other programs are possible—thanks to the generous support of our Partners in Health and all of our other donors.
